INTRODUCTION.

A RENEWED interest is awakening in local history. Many of our towns and cities have had chroniclers whose duties have been performed with greater or less success according to their ability or the facilities at their command.

But the chronicle stage in historical writing has passed in this country, and we have reached the period which demands a fresh investigation of the facts recorded. The historical method, so universally applied to all questions at the present time, demands a minute search for facts and the conditions bearing upon them, and extreme accuracy in their statement. Indeed, wherever we turn, personal research is found to be the method now employed whether in literature, science or the arts.

It is the discovery of the inaccuracies of the past, in consequence of this tendency to investigate, which is responsible for the awakening of interest in historical study, and in local history in particular, which is conceded to be the foundation of general history.

In this reaching after accuracy, no means is too trivial, no source too humble to be neglected. Newspapers are scanned, play-bills and advertisements are studied; sermons, addresses and reports give up their treasures to the student in the search for the truth of date, fact and opinion.

Local bibliography therefore becomes a distinct aid in this method of research, and, while it has not yet taken its true place, the time is now approaching when it will be estimated at its real value. No argument is required to show the importance of a permanent and accessible form for town records and for the early documents of settlement in this new country. Great pains is now being taken to the end of preserving these, and placing them within easy reach of the future historian. But in addition to these statements of the official life and growth of a town there are many occurrences which fall of notice in such records.

Broadsides, almanacs, addresses and sermons reflect the opinions of the times, and are as important witnesses of progress as the more formal town record and municipal and court document. Indeed, these precede the more elaborate record and document, and are of great value in consequence, as showing the earlier steps in the formation of public opinion and the beginnings of public movements. It is here that the bibliography of our principal towns may be of great value. Not only do we find reflected in its pages all national, state and local crises, as well as the less serious occasions of interest, but the religious, educational, literary and social growth of the town are represented by the titles, and may be studied within the pages of the books recorded in such collections. Dates of all occurrences, so important for historical accuracy, are settled beyond peradventure by reference to the titles or contents of the various volumes and pamphlets thus catalogued. It is not every town that has had its printing press, but even these less favored places will find in the larger centres to which they are tributary, data from which facts, occurrences and records may be verified.

Nearly one hundred years passed in the history of the town of Worcester before a press was set up within her borders, and we must look to the printers of Boston for records of our previous history. In 1775, however, after several years of solicitation, a printing press was established here, and Worcester became the fifth town in Massachusetts with that means of progress and enlightenment. This press was brought to us most opportunely, by a man singularly fitted for his work; and ISAIAH THOMAS should receive from Worcester gratitude and respect, not only for his own labors, but also for the position which his reputation won for our town in the esteem of the country.

It would be impossible to see in the earnest patriot of 1775, or in the vigorous man of affairs, with strong convictions upon every public question, of 1790, or in the cultured writer of the History of Printing of 1810, that boy of six years, who, with but six weeks' attendance at a village school, was in 1755 apprenticed to Zechariah Fowle of Boston.

The tattered dictionary and the ink-stained Bible which he found in that office started him in his career, and the printing press, together with an invincible determination to excel in his calling, carried him onward, until he stands to-day with Franklin and Baskerville, a type of the man who with few educational advantages succeeds because he loves his art for the art's sake.

It is not my intention to give an analysis of his work, but it may not be improper to call attention to a few of the books which his enterprise and industry gave to us.

The first book printed in Worcester is made up of evidence gathered by the Provincial Congress at Watertown to show that the aggressive was taken by the British troops at Lexington, and copies were sent to King George III. and his ministers to prove that important fact. Copies were also sent to the Governors and Congresses of the other Provinces to show the justice of our cause, and the necessity for immediate and united action. Truly, this book fraught with so great a destiny, is a noteworthy beginning of the literature of Worcester!

In 1785 ISAIAH THOMAS began to reprint a series of Juveniles obtained mainly from the toy-books of Carnan and Newbery of London, which delighted the hearts of thousands of the youth of New England. Many of these books, while preserving the main features of the original, were altered in text, and often admirably adapted to the necessities of their new purchasers.

The Bibles printed in 1791 and the years following, were a striking illustration of the wonderful sagacity and untiring energy of this printer. To accomplish the end in view more satisfactorily he brought engravers to Worcester, erected a paper mill and established a book-bindery. A touching proof of the discouragements with which he was met in forwarding this work is evidenced by a letter in the possession of the writer, in which he says, "next week I begin with a heavy heart to print the Folio Edition of my Bible."

It was this Folio Bible, the examination of which drew from Benjamin Franklin his involuntary tribute of praise and admiration.

A glance at the list of books printed by ISAIAH THOMAS and those reprinted by him from the English press will reveal a remarkable range of subjects, and a careful selection of the best books of the day upon those subjects, and will be additional proof of his sound judgment and his business enterprise.

These and many other undertakings were carried out at a large expenditure of time and money, with much greater uncertainty than is the case with such enterprises at the present time. These works were forwarded in addition to the constant burden of duties as printer, publisher, and often the largest contributor of his newspaper, The Massachusetts Spy, the standard of which he raised so high that it was for years one of the most influential papers in the United States.

Let me not convey the impression by this extended notice that the first printer of Worcester was the only one of his craft in this town. While this volume is in a measure intended as a memorial of his work in Worcester, subsequent pages will show a long list of worthy followers of ISAIAH THOMAS; indeed, it may be said with pride that the present day finds more than one successfully following his noble example.

Broadly speaking the printing of the town of Worcester may be classified into periods as follows:

1. 1775 to 1800, in which works devoted to the political life and educational progress of the country are marked.

2. 1800 to 1825, in which we find the growth of the controversial spirit, in politics partly, but mainly in the religious life of the people.

3. 1825 to 1838, in which the religious education of youth, and the anti-masonic and temperance movements were prominent.

4. 1838 to 1848, in which we find marked the publication of town reports and the multiplication of the newspaper.

In each of these periods will be found noteworthy titles, but this preface would exceed its limits were more particular attention given them.

The sources from which these titles have been taken include the large library of the American Antiquarian Society, that of The Worcester Society of Antiquity, the Free Public Library of Worcester, the State Library of Massachusetts and the Congregational Library at Boston. The Brinley Catalogue, that of Sabin, and innumerable sale catalogues carefully scanned during the past six years, have furnished titles when the books themselves have not been available. The principle was laid down at the outset that titles coming from these two sources alone were reliable, and it will be found that few exceptions have been made to this rule. To this list may be added books and titles sent me by many friends of this undertaking, and I take this occasion to acknowledge my gratitude for their kind assistance.

My acknowledgments are due, in particular, to Mr. Franklin P. Rice, without whose ever-ready aid and extensive knowledge of local history this work would not have been possible; to Mr. Edmund M. Barton, the kindly librarian of the American Antiquarian Society, and Miss Mary Robinson, his assistant, whose time and attention have been frequently taxed in the advancement of this book.

In a pioneer work it is hardly reasonable to expect that a full list of the printed books of this period has been obtained. It may be said, however, that no pains has been spared to render this work as complete in titles and accurate in statement as is possible under the circumstances. It is my hope that something of interest and of value to Worcester has been preserved herein, and that to this Bibliography may be applicable those words placed by its founder on the Certificate of the American Antiquarian Society,—Olim meminisse juvabit.

EXPLANATORY.

The portrait of ISAIAH THOMAS is taken from the plate used in Buckingham's Reminiscences, and the head- and tail-pieces are copied from books printed by THOMAS. As this Bibliography is, in so large a degree, a memorial of the work of our first printer, it seems not inappropriate that these and the facsimiles of title-pages should be confined to ISAIAH THOMAS and his productions.

TITLES have been taken, with few exceptions, from the books themselves or from catalogues. The few exceptions have been added because of strong circumstantial evidence, and their source has been duly recorded. In some cases it has been impossible to secure the first edition, and the title has been taken from the second. If the earlier edition is met with later slight variations may be discovered.

In recording the SIZES of these books the folding of the signatures has been followed when possible. In uncertain cases, or those of especial importance, the exact size of the copy seen has been noted. Much difficulty has arisen in consequence of the carelessness of the binder in trimming margins, and in irregularity of folding by the earlier printers on account of scarcity of paper. In the later years the table of sizes has been employed which is printed in the last edition (1897) of G. P. Putnam's Authors and Publishers.

In PAGINATION the plan has been to separate the introductory matter from the main contents of the book without following the subdivision more minutely. This plan was adopted because the books recorded are more modern, and therefore more easily obtained and examined than those of the earlier century. Among the older books some irregularity is found through carelessness of the printer or the binder by misprinting, misplacing or omitting pages. When a frontispiece is present it is ordinarily counted as two pages, even when pasted on the cover, as is the case with the Juveniles.

SCHEMA: All numbers inclosed in parentheses represent the number of consecutive pages not numbered by the printer.

+ following the number of pages indicates that no perfect copy could be found.

Vertical lines represent the principal lines in the title, and these have been recorded only in the books printed previous to 1800, and a few more important subsequent titles.

Each dot represents a line in the title omitted because of too little importance to elucidate it.

Almanack. The North American's | Almanack, | For the Year of our Lord 1777. | [Map of New York and vicinity] | By SAMUEL STEARNS. | State of Massachusetts-Bay. | Worcester: Printed by Stearns and Bigelow. N. D. 12°, pp. (24). 6

Almanack. The North American's | Almanack, | For the Year of our Lord Christ, | 1777. | | By ISAAC WARREN, | Student in Astronomy, | | Worcester: | Printed and sold by W. Stearns and D. Bigelow. | also to be sold by the Author in Lancaster at 3/6 per dozen, and 3 coppers single. N. D. 12°, pp. (24). 7

¶ Essentially the same as No. 6, and probably it was published with Warren's name through prudential motives after Stearns came under suspicion.

Cummings. A | Sermon, | Preached in Billerica, | On the 23d of November, 1775. | Being the Day appointed by Civil Authority, | for a | Public Thanksgiving | Throughout the Province of Massachusetts-Bay. | By HENRY CUMINGS, A. M. | Pastor of the Church there. | Massachusetts-Bay: | Worcester, Printed by I. THOMAS, near the | Court-House. N. D. 8°, pp. (2), (2), 3-29. 8

Maccarty. Praise to God, a Duty of | continual Obligation. | A | Sermon, | Preached at Worcester, | Thursday, November 23d, 1775. | Being a Day of Public Thanksgiving, | by the Appointment of the General Assembly. | By THADDEUS MACCARTY, A. M. | Pastor of the Church in Worcester. | . | Massachusetts-Bay: | Worcester, Printed and sold by I. THOMAS, | at his Printing-Office near the Court-House. N. D. 8°, pp. (4), 5-28. 9

¶ THADDEUS MACCARTY was born in Boston in 1721, and was graduated at Harvard College in 1739. He was the minister of Kingston, Mass., from 1742 to 1745, and of Worcester from 1747 to his death in 1784. His published discourses other than those printed in Worcester, were: Farewell Sermon at Kingston, 1745; Installation Sermon at Worcester, 1747; Two Fast Sermons, 1759; Sermon at execution of Arthur, 1768; Sermon at execution of Linsey, 1770; Two Fast Sermons, July 14, 1774; Answer to George Keith's Libel, 1774.

Newspaper. Thomas's Massachusetts Spy. 10

¶ Published from January 5, No. 254, Vol. V., to December 26, No. 295, Vol. VI., weekly, excepting the period from February 16 to April 22 (during which time only two papers were issued), and from May 31 to June 21. A supplement was printed with the number for April 12. On the 21st of June the names of William Stearns and Daniel Bigelow appeared as publishers, they having leased the printing establishment of Mr. Thomas, who, about that time, removed from the town, and the Spy was issued by them the remainder of the year, the form of the heading being "THE MASSACHUSETTS SPY." The size was reduced to 9½ by 14½ inches.

Newspaper. The Massachusetts Spy. 11

¶ From January 2, No. 296, Vol. VI., to December 25, No. 347, Vol. VII., weekly. Continued by Stearns and Bigelow to August 7, and from the 14th of that month to the end of the year by Anthony Haswell, who substituted "HASWELL'S" for the definite article at the head, but his name was for some reason withdrawn for three months from December 11, and then restored. The average size of the paper, this and succeeding years to 1783, was 9½ by 15½. The numbers for December 4 and 25 were much reduced in size on account of the scarcity of paper.

Adams. Brotherly Love and Compassion, | Described and Recommended, | in a | Sermon, | Preached | Before a Society | of the | Most Ancient and Honourable | Free and Accepted Masons, | in | Lancaster, New-England, | on | Wednesday, the Twenty-fourth of June, 1778. | By ZABDIEL ADAMS, | Pastor of the Church in Lunenburgh. | | Massachusetts-Bay: |

Worcester, Printed by ISAIAH THOMAS. | M,DCC,LXXVIII. 8°, pp.
(6), 7-27. 12

¶ ZABDIEL ADAMS, 1739-1801, was graduated from Harvard College in 1759. He was pastor of the church in Lunenburg, Mass., from 1764 to the time of his death. He was an original thinker and a man of strong character. In a sermon published in 1772, he maintained the right of a minister to negative the proceedings of his church. In consequence of the acceptance of this doctrine several ministers lost their parishes. He was a cousin of the first President Adams, and at one time complained because he had not studied law instead of divinity; saying, "Is there any reason why I should not have been President as well as my cousin John?"

Almanack. Thomas's | Massachusetts, New Hampshire and
Connecticut | Almanack, | for the | Year of our Lord Christ
1779: | | By Philomathes.

Th' amazing things that we have done,
The glorious battles we have won,
Have aggrandiz'd our Name;
Where'er we strove to bear the sway,
The affrighted foe still slunk away,
To our immortal Fame.

Massachusetts-Bay: | Worcester, Printed and sold by ISAIAH
THOMAS. N. D. 12°, pp. (24). 13

¶ With the number for 1779 Thomas resumed the publication of his Almanac, which he had relinquished with the issue for 1775. The series was continued by him without further interruption until he resigned its publication to his son in 1801.

Foster. Fallen Sinners of Men able to do well. | A | Sermon, |
Preached at the | Ordination | of the | Reverend Daniel Foster | To the Pastoral Office in New-Braintree, | In Colleague with the Rev. Benjamin Ruggles, | On the 29th Day of October, 1778. | By his Father the Reverend | ISAAC FOSTER, M. A. |
Pastor of a Church in Stafford. | . . . | Massachusetts-Bay: |
Worcester, Printed by ISAIAH THOMAS. N. D. 8°, pp. (1), (1), 3-56. 14

Maccarty. The Guilt of Innocent Blood | put away. | A |
Sermon, | Preached in Worcester, July 2, 1778, | on | Occasion of the Execution | of | James Buchanan, William Brooks, |

Ezra Ross, and Bathshua Spooner, | for the | Murder | of Mr.
Joshua Spooner, at Brookfield, | on the Evening of the first of March preceeding. | | By THADDEUS MACCARTY, A. M. |
. | Worcester : | Massachusetts-Bay, Printed and sold by |
ISAAH THOMAS & CO. MDCCLXXVIII. 8°, pp. (4), 5-40. 15

¶ This sermon was reprinted in Connecticut, and perhaps in other places.

Newspaper. The Massachusetts Spy. 16

¶ From January 1, No. 348, Vol. VII., to December 31, No. 400, Vol. VIII. Several numbers were much reduced in size; a supplement appeared with the issue for December 17. June 25 the name of Isaiah Thomas, as publisher, reappeared, and the heading "THOMAS'S MASSACHUSETTS SPY" was restored.

1779.

HAIL happy days! Now PEACE her olive rears,
No more War's Clarion sounds upon our ears:
FREEDOM, that heav'n-born—with Minerva's shield,
Hath vanquished Tyrants from the hostile field,
The Sword and Spear, forever may they rust,
Sheathed, 'till Suns and Systems fall to dust.

Perry. The | Only Sure Guide | to the | English Tongue : | or,
New | Pronouncing Spelling Book. |
By W. PERRY, | Lecturer on the English Language, in the Academy, Edinburgh. | The Eighth Edition. | Printed at
Worcester, Massachusetts, by ISAIAH THOMAS. | . | MDCCLXXXV.
16°, pp. (2), III.-IX., 10-180. 64

¶ This Eighth edition of Perry's famous Spelling Book was the First Worcester edition, Thomas's next issue being designated "The Second Worcester Edition," and so on.

Dr. Stearns's | Petition | to his Excellency the | Governour, |
and the Honourable | Council : | Exhibiting | The Troubles
he has met with, by Reason of | the Appearance of False
Evidence | against him. | Presented to the Members of the |
Honourable | General Court, | of the | Commonwealth of Massachusetts, | for their Information. | Printed at Worcester,
Massachusetts, | By ISAIAH THOMAS. | MDCCLXXXV? 8°, pp. (1),
1, 3-12. 65

¶ In the copy at A. A. S. Library verso of title-page contains a letter recommending this petition to members of the General Assembly, with the autograph signatures of O. Holman and W. Shaw.

SAMUEL STEARNS, M. D., LL. D., 1747-1809, was a native of Lancaster, and resided in Paxton at the beginning of the Revolution. His principles soon brought him into difficulty, and he fled to New York, where, in addition to the nautical almanac mentioned in the note to No. 1, he prepared the first Materia Medica in the English language published in America. He was also the author of other works. On his return to Massachusetts, in 1783, he was arrested, and was confined in Worcester Gaol more than two years, his case exhibiting a remarkable instance of patriotic spite and persecution. On his release he went to England, was pensioned by the King, received titles from a college, and was honored with the friendship of Herschel and other men of science. Lincoln, in his History of Worcester, characterizes Stearns as an "astrologer, almanac manufacturer and quack by profession," a slur which seems unmerited unless applied to all of similar pursuits at that time.

Stiles. The United States elevated | to Glory and Honour. | A | Sermon, | Preached | before his Excellency | Jonathan Trumbull, Esq. L. L. D. | . | And the Honourable | The General Assembly, | of the | State of Connecticut, | Convened at Hartford, at | The Anniversary Election, | May 8th, MDCCLXXXIII. | By EZRA STILES, D. D. L. L. D. | President of Yale College. | | Second Edition, Corrected. | Printed at Worcester, Massachusetts, | By ISAIAH THOMAS, | —MDCCLXXXV. 12°, pp. (2), (2), 5-172. 66

Thomas. New | American Spelling Book, | or | The Child's Easy Introduction | to | Spelling and Reading | the | English Tongue. | To which is added, | An entire New, Plain and | Comprehensive English Grammar. | Also, | The Shorter Catechism, | By the Assembly of Divines. | The Whole adapted to the Capacities of Young | Children ; rendering the Use of a Primer | unnecessary. | Printed at Worcester, Massachusetts, | By ISAIAH THOMAS : | sold at his Bookstore, and by E. Battelle in Boston. | MDCCLXXXV. 16°, pp. (2), 1, (2), 5-144. 67

¶ "This book was rather hastily compiled. I had designed to have written another spelling book on a new plan, and provided some materials for that purpose, but had not leisure to execute the work whilst I continued in the printing business.—I. THOMAS."

"Soon after publishing this, I printed and introduced Perry's Spelling book, which after it was new modeled had what booksellers call 'a very good run.'—MS. notes in copy at A. A. S. Library.

In another note Isaiah Thomas questions if the Catechism is "adapted to the capacities of young children"!

Types. A | Specimen | of | Isaiah Thomas's | Printing |

STEPHEN SEWALL, 1734-1804, was considered the most accomplished classical scholar of his time in America. In his youth he worked as a joiner, and, after accumulating some property, entered Harvard College. In 1761, the year of his graduation, he contributed seven of the compositions contained in the Pietas et Gratulatio, published by authority of the College in honor of the accession of George III. Sewall for many years filled the chair of Hebrew and Oriental Languages at Harvard. He prepared several text-books, and published among other works a Latin translation of Young's Night Thoughts. All of his productions were distinguished for their elegance and correctness.

Bible. The | Holy Bible, | containing the | Old and New | Testaments: | with the | Apocrypha. | Translated | Out of the Original Tongues, | and | with the former Translations diligently compared and revised, | By the special Command of King James I, of England. | With an | Index. | . . | United States of America. | Printed at the Press in Worcester, Massachusetts, | By ISAAH THOMAS. | . | MDCCXCI. Folio: Vol. I., pp. Fr. (2), (2), 1-2, 3-4, 5-460; Vol. II., pp. (2), 461-635, (1), 637-786, (2), 789-991, (1), 993-1012+. 184

¶ There are in this Bible fifty copper-plates, thirty-two being by Joseph H. Seymour of Philadelphia, and one by Amos Doolittle, of New Haven, the engraver of the views of the battle of Lexington; the remainder were by Samuel Hill and H. Norman. Three wood-cuts mark the first pages of the three natural divisions, the Old and New Testaments and the Apocrypha, and ornamental letters begin each book of the Bible. Some copies were issued in one volume having but two title-pages, the one given above and one for the New Testament, with no directions to the binder or list of plates. When issued in two volumes the first title-page was repeated, varying only in the words Volume II. There seems to have been some diversity in the place of division of these volumes.

At the bottom of the last page, 1012, is the catch-word AN, indicating another page, perhaps with AN Alphabetical Table of Proper Names, as in the Quarto, but no copy has been found containing it.

"Previous to printing this Isaiah Thomas collected nearly thirty copies of the Bible printed at different times and places, selected the most correct and used them for revision. Each sheet was examined by Rev. Aaron Bancroft and Rev. Samuel Austin and others, and compared with at least eight different copies."—O'CALLAGHAN.

Royal 4°, Vol. I., pp. Fr. (2), 3-4, 5-6, (2), 9-824 ; Vol. II., pp. Fr. (2), 825-1014, (2), (2), 1019-1276, 1277-1310. 185

¶ This Bible was issued in December, 1791, on the same day as the first volume of the Folio, and was published in two volumes. It varies, however, in having but forty-eight plates, no wood-cuts; and ornamental letters at the beginning of the divisions only. It has double columns separated by parallel lines, and in addition to the general title-page, has a separate title-page for the Old Testament containing a Hebrew text, and one for the New Testament with a Greek text. The proof was examined by Rev. Joseph Avery of Holden. This Bible was sold in three styles: with plates and Concordance, with Concordance alone, and without plates or Concordance.

¶ The titles are within plain rules, that of the Old Testament having a Hebrew text, and that of the New a Greek text. The Bible is not paged, but contains twenty-eight signatures in the Old and twelve in the New Testament: it contains an error in Acts vi. 3. In the Octavo, 1793, Isaiah Thomas advertised this Duodecimo or the Common School Bible, to be printed on beautiful new type to be cast particularly for the purpose. It is called Thomas's Standing 12mo. Edition because the type was not distributed but left "standing" ready for the press.

"Americanus." Address to the People of the United States; with an Epitome and Vindication of the Public Life and Character of Thomas Jefferson. Second Edition. Worcester, Massachusetts, Printed by Sewall Goodridge. MDCCCII. 8°, pp. (1), (1), 3-32. 427

¶ This is the First Worcester Edition, and was reprinted to vindicate in New England the character of the President whose official life had been so calumniated. It is signed by "AMERICANUS."

Bayard. Mr. Bayard's Speech on the Bill received from the Senate, entitled "An Act to repeal certain Acts respecting the Organization of the Courts of the United States." Delivered in the House of Representatives of the United States, February 19-20, 1802. . Worcester: (Massachusetts) From the Press of Isaiah Thomas, Jun. April—1802. 12°, pp. (2), 3-48. 428

Bible. The | Holy Bible, | Containing the | Old and New Testaments: | Together with the | Apochrypha: | Translated out of the | Original Tongues, | and | with the Former Translations diligently | Compared and Revised, | By the | Special Command of King James 1, of England. | Second Worcester Edition. | United States of America. | Printed in Worcester, Massachusetts, | For ISAIAH THOMAS. | | MDCCCLII. 8°, pp. (2), (1), (1), (1), (1), 7-735, (1), (176), (2), 739-960. 429

¶ O'Callaghan says this edition is not an exact reprint of the Octavo Bible of 1793, though there is considerable correspondence in the Old Testaments of both. The following errors are found in this edition. The last line of 2 Sam. 6:22, is printed "Spok en of, of them shall I behad in honour." 1 Cor. 15:42 reads, "So also is the resurrection of the Dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in corruption."

The New Testament was printed in 1801, but was bound up with the Old Testament of 1802, as stated in the note to No. 420.

Bible. Thomas's Standing 12°. 430

¶ From the standing types of 1797, with a new title-page, and imprint of Isaiah Thomas, Jun.

¶ EBENEZER CHAPLIN, 1733-1822, graduated at Yale College in 1753. He was minister of the Second Parish in Sutton (that part afterwards set off as Millbury) from 1764 to 1792, and became involved in troubles and a contest to maintain his claim of a life settlement, which are detailed in Henry L. Shumway's paper in Proceedings of The Worcester Society of Antiquity for 1882.

Church. The | Choice : | A | Poem, | after the manner of Pomfret. | Written in the year 1757. | By Dr. BENJAMIN CHURCH, | while at college, and at the age of eighteen years. | . | Printed at Worcester : | By Isaiah Thomas, Jun. | April—1802. 16°, pp. (2), 3-16. 432

Eliot, JAMES? Fayette In Prison : or Misfortunes of the Great. A Modern Tragedy. By a Gentleman of Massachusetts. Worcester, (Mass.) Printed for the Author. 1802. 8°, pp. (2), III-VI., (1), (1), 9-40. 438

¶ On the title-page of copy in A. A. S. library is written by Isaiah Thomas, "By James Eliot, Esq. of Brattleborough, Vt." In the note to No. 396, it is stated that the author was Samuel Elliot, according to Brinley.

Mahomet. The | Life | of | Mahomet ; | or, the | History of that imposture | which was | Begun, carried on, and finally established by him in Arabia ; | and which has | subjugated a larger Portion of the Globe, than | the Religion of Jesus has set at Liberty. | To which is added, an | Account of Egypt. | First American Edition. | Worcester : | Printed by Isaiah Thomas, Jun. | May—1802. 16°, pp. (2), III.-VIII. [] 13-154. 439 ¶ Pages 9-12 are lacking in several copies seen, and as it is not uncommon in these early books, the omission must be ascribed to the printer's error.

Moore. An Oration on the Anniversary of the Independence of the United States of America. Pronounced at Worcester, Monday, July 5, 1802, By ZEPHANIAH SWIFT MOORE, A. M. . Worcester, Massachusetts, From the Press of Isaiah Thomas, Jun. July—1802. 8°, pp. (2), 3-24. 440

¶ The above is from the Brinley Catalogue, No. 5866. The compiler,

Mr. John Hammond Trumbull, in The Sunday School Times, May 6, 1882, states that in 1802 Isaiah Thomas printed in Worcester a "revised, corrected and improved Primer." He further notes in this edition several variations from others.

New Testament. The | New Testament | of our | Lord and Saviour | Jesus Christ, | Newly Translated out of the | Original Greek, | and with the | Former Translations | diligently compared and revised. | Appointed to be read in Churches. | . | Printed at Worcester, | By Isaiah Thomas Jun. | .. | September—1802. 12°, pp. (1), (1), (346). 442

¶ The title is within ornamental rules, and the text is not paged.

Norton. Salvation for all men ; and a Special Salvation for All True Believers. Illustrated and Urged ; By Elijah Norton, of Woodstock. .. Worcester, (Massachusetts.) Printed by Daniel Greenleaf. 1802. 16°, pp. (2), 3-24 + ? 443

¶ The copies in A. A. S. and Tufts College libraries appear by the abrupt ending of the last line to be incomplete, but otherwise the pamphlets bear no evidence that they are imperfect.

Steele. The Christian Hero or, no Principles but those of Religion, sufficient to make a Great man. Written in the year 1701. By RICHARD STEELE. ... Worcester, Massachusetts, From the Press of Isaiah Thomas, Jun. July—1802. 12°, pp. (2), III.-VI., 7-84. 444

¶ This was the first public effort of Levi Lincoln, and marked the beginning of a distinguished career. The Address was intensely republican in sentiment, and severe in its arraignment of the federalists.

Levi Lincoln, Junior, was born in Worcester October 25, 1782, and graduated at Harvard College in 1802. He was successively a State Senator, Representative, Speaker, Lieutenant-Governor, and Judge of the Massachusetts Supreme Court. He served as Governor from 1825 to 1834, and as a Member of Congress from 1835 to 1841. He was the first Mayor of Worcester in 1848. He died May 29, 1868. His father, Levi Lincoln, senior, was a member of President Jefferson's cabinet, and filled other high positions.

London Plague. A Pathetic History of the Plague in London in the Year 1665. To which is here added, an Account of the Surprising Revivals of Religion in a number of Towns in the New England States, and also in Nova Scotia. . . Russell. An Oration, Pronounced in the Baptist Meeting-house, In Providence, on the Anniversary of American Independence, July 4th, 1800. By JONATHAN RUSSELL, Esquire. Third Edition. . Printed at Worcester, By Sewall Goodridge. August 9th, 1803. 8°, pp. (2), (1), (1), 5-27. 456

¶ This oration passed through many editions. The author was a versatile, forcible and elegant writer and speaker. He was born in Providence, Rhode Island in 1771, and died at Milton, Massachusetts, in 1832. He was graduated at Brown University in 1791, and after several years of mercantile life entered the diplomatic service; was charge d'affaires at London after the departure of the American minister in 1812, minister at Stockholm in 1814, and one of the commissioners who signed the treaty at Ghent in 1815. After his return to this country he resided in Mendon, Massachusetts, and was a Member of Congress from the Worcester District in 1821-3. His political future was ruined by his connection with the attempt to overthrow John Quincy Adams in his advance to the presidency.

Brazer. Address, Pronounced at Worcester, on May 12th, 1804, In Commemoration of the Cession of Louisiana to the United States. By SAMUEL BRAZER, Junior. . Second Edition. Printed at Worcester, By Sewall Goodridge. June 1804. 8°, pp. (4), 5-15, (1). 462.

¶ The above title is from the second edition, as a copy of the first edition, printed in the previous month, was not to be found.

SAMUEL BRAZER, noted as a wit and satirist, was born in Worcester in 1785 and died at Baltimore, Maryland, in 1823. He did not receive a collegiate training, but through his natural talent became one of the most effective newspaper writers of his time. His contributions to The National Ægis gained for that journal a high reputation. He was frequently called upon to deliver political orations: the above, his first effort, at the age of eighteen, was very popular with his associates of the Jeffersonian party. He studied law but abandoned that profession, and subsequently became editor of The Baltimore Patriot.

Perry's Spelling Book. Improved Edition. 471

¶ This is the first of the series of the Improved Editions, and the following extracts from the Preface will show the wide popularity of the Book. " . . Fourteen Editions (constituting at least three hundred thousand copies) of this useful Book have issued from our Press in Worcester. . . . The best Instructors of Youth in our Country have thought some amendments might be made in the general plan of the work. The editor has, therefore, with labor and cost endeavored to render this New Edition, conformable to the suggestions . . . In this new improved edition the grammar is wholly omitted." January, 1804.

¶ This book is illustrated with five plates.

It is one of the earliest American reprints on this subject for the purpose of systematizing medical practice in the United States. Dr. Samuel Stearns (see No. 65) attempted to publish an American Dispensatory from 1772 until 1801, by lottery, by state aid or by subscription. Although the material was ready for the press he failed, because, as he said, "he found that the physicians of the country were poorer than the well-to-do farmers." In 1801 he published The American Herbal as a part of his proposed system; but in 1806 Dr. John R. Coxe published the first American Dispensatory in Philadelphia.

¶ In the Advertisement the Editor says, "The best recommendation that can be given of its merits [the Improved Edition of 1804] is in asserting that Twenty Thousand of them have been sold during the last year."

From this time successive editions were printed without change and without date, until that of 1817, which is entitled the Twenty Second Improved Edition.

Sherman. One God in one person only: and Jesus Christ a being distinct from God, Dependent upon Him for his existence, and his various powers; Maintained and Defended. . . . By JOHN SHERMAN, Pastor of The First Church in Mansfield, (Connecticut.) . Worcester: From the Press of Isaiah Thomas, Jun. September—1805. 8°, pp. (2), III.-XVI., 17-198, (2).

¶ The author (b. 1772; d. 1828, V. C. 1792) was an early exponent of Unitarianism in America, and the above publication is said to have been the first formal and elaborate defence of that belief published in New England.

By DANIEL DOW, Pastor of a Church in Thompson, Connecticut. Second Edition. Worcester: Printed by Thomas & Sturtevant. 1806. 8°, pp. (1), (1), 3-51. 493
¶ Copyright says entered in Connecticut February 5, 1806. It is probable, therefore, that the first edition was printed in that State.
- Juvenile. The History of the Holy Jesus. Second Worcester Edition. Worcester, Massachusetts: Printed by Thomas & Sturtevant, For Isaiah Thomas, Jun. . . 1806. 24°, pp. Fr. (1), (1), 5-69. 494 ¶ Reference to No. 248 will show that this is properly the third edition. In this edition many of the cuts are different, and eleven songs are added. The present is an excellent illustration of the inexactness of printers in those early days, and the difficulty of the bibliographer in the present work.
- Lathrop. Sermons on various subjects, . Adapted to the Promotion of Christian Piety, Family Religion and Youthful Virtue. By JOSEPH LATHROP, D. D. . Printed at Worcester, By Isaiah Thomas, Jun. . . . March—1806. 12°, pp. (2), III.-VIII., 9-407. 495

pp. Fr. (1), (1), III.-VI., 7-16, 17-487; Vol. II., pp. (2),
III.-IV., 5-576. 546

¶ This publication, the first pretentious work of its kind in America, is very valuable for its account of the previous and contemporary state of the art of printing in this country, many facts known only to its author being included. A second edition, with certain modifications, and a list of ante-revolutionary books by Dr. S. F. Haven, Jr., was published in 1874 by the American Antiquarian Society, as volumes v. and vi. of its Transactions.

ISAAH THOMAS, the large and valuable list of whose printed works forms the basis of this Bibliography, was born in Boston January 19, 1749, and died at Worcester April 4, 1831. At the age of six years he was apprenticed to Zechariah Fowle, a Boston printer, and remained with him until, in 1766, in consequence of a quarrel with his master, the lad ran away, and during the next three or four years worked in different places, from Halifax, Nova Scotia, to Charleston, South Carolina. In 1770 he returned to Boston, and with Fowle established The Massachusetts Spy, which soon, through the ability and fearlessness of Thomas, became the most powerful organ of the Whig cause. He became sole proprietor of the paper, and in April, 1775, on the eve of hostilities, removed it to Worcester, where its publication is still conducted. After the Revolution Mr. Thomas engaged in the most extensive printing and publishing business on this continent, having at one time in operation seven presses in Worcester and five in Boston. Besides the Spy he was concerned in the publication of other papers and The Massachusetts Magazine. He retired from active business in 1802. In 1812 he founded the American Antiquarian Society, which he endowed with books and property. He was a member of several learned societies, and received the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Laws. Franklin styled him the Baskerville of America.

¶ This oration was delivered at the celebration by the young men of the town between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one, the orator himself being but eighteen.

JOHN W. HUBBARD was an adopted son of the Rev. Dr. Samuel Austin, and a nephew of Mrs. Austin. He was born at Brookfield, Vermont; was graduated at Dartmouth College in 1814, and studied law with Governor Van Ness of Vermont and Samuel M. Burnside of Worcester. He died in 1825, at the early age of thirty-two.

¶ The name of Thomas was omitted from the heading of this paper in October, 1810, when the Spy was leased to James Elliot, a former member of Congress, for a term of years, by Isaiah Thomas, Jr., who had published it from the time he succeeded to his father's business. The lease to Elliot was rescinded in February, 1811, his political views not being acceptable to the Federalists of this vicinity. From August, 1812 to October, 1814, the paper was published by Isaac Sturtevant, and William Manning succeeded; but the real ownership probably remained with the senior Thomas until 1819, when he sold the paper to William Manning and George A. Trumbull. Thomas's name was restored in 1811 and remained until 1821, and Worcester Gazette, adopted as part of the title in

March 4, 1812. By SAMUEL AUSTIN, D. D. Printed at Worcester, By Isaac Sturtevant. 1812. 8°, pp. (2), 3-28. 561

Austin. A Sermon, preached in Worcester, Massachusetts, on the occasion of the Special Fast, July 23, 1812. By SAMUEL AUSTIN, D. D. Published from the press, by the desire of some who heard it, and liked it, by the desire of some who heard it, and did not like it, and by the desire of others who did not hear it, but imagine they should not have liked it, if they had.

Printed at Worcester, By Isaac Sturtevant. 1812. 8°, pp. (2),
III.-IV., 5-28. 562

¶ This sermon was one of those strong expressions against the policy of the government with which the New England pulpit abounded at that time. This effort created a great commotion.

Austin. The Apology of Patriots, or The heresy of the friends of Washington and peace policy defended. A Sermon, preached in Worcester, Massachusetts, on the day of the National Fast, Thursday, August 20, 1812. Observed in compliance with the recommendation of James Madison, President of the United States; and in consequence of the Declaration of War against Great Britain. By SAMUEL AUSTIN, D. D. . ¶ ENOCH LINCOLN was a brother of Levi Lincoln, Governor of Massachusetts, and William Lincoln, the historian of Worcester, and possessed in a marked degree the brilliant qualities of his distinguished family. He was born in Worcester December 28, 1788, and died at Augusta, while Governor of Maine, October 8, 1829. He was a member of Congress from 1818 to 1826. His political speeches, poems and other productions show versatility and a high order of talent.

A Catechism: compiled and recommended by the Worcester Association of Ministers, For the instruction and improvement of Children and Youth. . . . Fifth Edition, with Hymns. Worcester: Published by George A. Trumbull, Manning & Trumbull, Printers, Worcester—1821. 24°, pp. Fr. (1), (1), (1), 6-20, 21-34. 700

¶ On frontispiece is printed, "Trumbull's First Edition."

As no copy of the Fourth Edition of this Catechism has been found, the date of its publication is not known. In 1822 a more elaborate Catechism was published in Boston under the auspices of the Worcester Association, and probably replaced this Trumbull edition. It passed through many editions in subsequent years, the twenty-first being issued in 1862. In the Twentieth Anniversary Sermon, before the Worcester Sunday School Society in 1854, the author states: "The Worcester Catechism, both the old edition prepared by the late Rev. Dr. Bancroft, and the new, published under the auspices of the present Worcester Association, were used as textbooks in Common Schools as well as Sunday Schools."

- ¶ A monthly Magazine intended to contain historical information regarding the United States, and Worcester County in particular. The Magazine was established and conducted by William Lincoln and Christopher C. Baldwin, and they were assisted by competent writers in the vicinity, some of whom were members of the Worcester County Historical Society, which was formed about this time, and existed a few years, its books and other possessions being finally turned over to the American Antiquarian Society. The first number of the Magazine was printed in June, but probably was not published until October, as the second was dated November.

Allen. The Moral Providence of God. A Sermon delivered in Shrewsbury, January 4, 1829. By GEORGE ALLEN, Pastor of the Congregational Church and Society in Shrewsbury. . Worcester: M. Spooner, Printer. 1829. 8°, pp. (1), (1), 3-19. 812

¶ GEORGE ALLEN was born in Worcester in 1792, and died in this city in 1883. He was a son of Joseph Allen, Clerk of the Courts and Member of Congress, and brother of Judge Charles Allen who was prominent in Free-soil times and served in Congress from 1849 to 1853. His grandmother was a sister of Samuel Adams. George was graduated at Yale College in 1813, and entered the ministry. His only pastorate was at Shrewsbury, from 1823 to 1840. Mr. Allen took part in the anti-masonic and anti-slavery movements, publishing several pamphlets of wide circulation and acknowledged effect. He was an accurate and comprehensive scholar, and a writer of great power.

¶ This was the first Worcester Directory in separate form, and was substantially a house directory, the inhabitants being indicated by their location. The copper-plate map which accompanied it measures 15 by 19 inches, and was drawn by Dr. Edward E. Phelps, and the engraving and printing were executed elsewhere. The Directory was reprinted by Tyler & Seagrave in 1872, and the map was reproduced in lithotype at that time. Clarendon Harris, 1800-1884, was a son of Rev. Thaddeus M. Harris, D. D. He succeeded George A. Trumbull as a bookseller in Worcester in 1823, and continued in that business twenty-five years.

¶ Rev. JOHN STEVENS CABOT ABBOTT, 1805-1877, was pastor of the Calvinist (now the Central) Church in Worcester from 1830 to 1835. He was a writer of marked ability and wide reputation, and his productions were widely circulated. His Life of Napoleon was extremely partial to its subject, but was valuable in modifying the obviously inadequate and unjust estimate of Channing and other writers. While in Worcester Mr.

Abbott wrote "The Mother at Home," a book of moral and practical instruction, first published in Boston, which passed through many editions and was translated into nearly all the European languages. It was printed in Greek at Athens and in Dutch at the Cape of Good Hope. Jacob Abbott, a brother of J. S. C., was a popular writer for the young.

Burritt, Elihu. The Literary Geminæ : A Monthly Magazine in English and French. June, 1839. Worcester, Mass : Printed for the Editor and Proprietor, by E. W. Bartlett, No. 11, Central Exchange. Clarendon Harris, General Agent, Worcester, Mass. . . 956

¶ This Magazine was published monthly until May, 1840, and bore on its title-page from the October number the name of Elihu Burritt, Editor and Proprietor.

ELIHU BURRITT, 1812-1881, called by Edward Everett "The Learned Blacksmith," came to Worcester in 1838 to study the Oriental languages in the library of the American Antiquarian Society. He remained here until 1846, working at the forge eight hours a day, studying, writing and lecturing. The Literary Gemina was his first venture, but did not prove a financial success. His interest was then turned to philanthropy and the question of international peace; and The Olive Leaves and his weekly papers, The Christian Citizen and The Bond of Brotherhood, evidenced his activity in this great cause. He was a man of indomitable will and unrelenting energy, and his extensive writings show great force and versatility.
